The Style Guide

Fiona Barratt Campbell – interior designer and FBC London founder

“As an ex-international football player and current football coach, this beautiful crystal and aluminium foosball table is the perfect Christmas gift for my husband [ex-footballer and football coach Sol Campbell]. All boys love their toys and this ultra-sleek investment piece is ideal for grown-ups and their inner child. My only issue is how to wrap it!”

“Mum adores anything and everything cashmere so this stunning reversible throw is the only gift for her. Immeasurably soft and cosy for the season, I can picture this throw at the end of my parents’ bed, ready to warm on cold winter nights.”

“When buying a gift for friends, particularly a Christmas gift, I always like to go with something they would never purchase for themselves. An item that would be seen as an extravagance, a ‘want’ rather than a ‘need’. I immediately thought of my best friend when I saw this luxurious rabbit fur eye mask. She sometimes has trouble falling asleep at night so I know this mask will help her drift into dreamland.”

“[For me?] Why not?! It’s Christmas. I am very interested in learning about the different varieties of wine across the globe and becoming a connoisseur. This is the perfect treat to peruse through on the sofa in front of the fire.”
